Luxury interior decoration retailer The Art of Living (AOL) relaunched their store with a larger size and a newer look. The expansion was precipitated by rapid growth in AOL’s product portfolio. The newly-acquired first floor strengthens the store’s visibility and accessibility.

The expansion also made room for a Gallery which will display work from established and up-and-coming Sri Lankan photographers.

AOL has made a name for itself by specialising in top-notch brands from around the world. They are especially known for cutlery as well as glassware, for which they are the country’s highest importer.

The store features crafts, linens, plates, candles, decorations and many other products for a discerning eye, whether they are designed for a living room or a hotel.
