Dilly & Carlo joins hands with the Field Ornithology Group of Sri Lanka

Posted on

Dilly & Carlo, joined hands with one of Sri Lanka's foremost nature organisations FOGSL, headed by the well-known bird specialist Prof. Sarath Kotagama, to create awareness about the environment under the title 'Committed for Conservation'.

Dilly & Carlo is a part of the awareness programme, the Annual Migrant Watch organised by FOGSL in an attempt to introduce bird watching to beginners and to send out the message of conservation. The proprietor of the boutique Dilani Wijeysekera says, "I felt the need to do our little bit to bring such beauty closer to the people we interact with and we are extremely happy to partner with FOGSL in this wonderful venture 'Committed for Conservation." Dilly and Carlo will be celebrating their association with FOGSL by introducing a range of T-Shirts featuring endemic birds and a T-Shirt dedicated for the cause. A percentage of the sale of these products will be handed over to FOGSL for conservation programmes around the country. The boutique has a dedicated jungle themed range of products to be displayed in the very near future.