“it was a difficult decision for all of us three judges to select one grand prize winner as all the top four photos were excellent and each deserved recognition in its own right.”

The grand prize of the competition went to Dubai based Filipino photographer Christopher Medenilla for his photograph titled “Endurance”, that creatively captured a moment in a marathon race. The other first prize winners awarded at the ceremony were: Spencer Guiao, from India, who won in the Live/People category for his photograph titled “The Gaze” and Filipino Scott Lorenzo whose photo “The Journey” won him the prize in the UAE Architecture category.

Beno Saradzic, an award-winning photographer and one of the jurors, said, “it was a difficult decision for all of us three judges to select one grand prize winner as all the top four photos were excellent and each deserved recognition in its own right. However we selected “Endurance” because the angle was atypical, and the photograph managed to capture movement, tradition and diversity.”

Juror Darren Rycroft added, “each of the judges had their own favourites - my personal one from the top four was “The Gaze”, because of the intensity of the eyes, the composition of the image and the quality of finishing. We tallied all our votes to come up with the final winners.”

Shahid Saeed, founder of Abu Dhabi Photographers said, “we were astounded by the level of interest, the number of entries and the quality of the submissions. Some of the photographers were from our group, but the majority came from other emirates. I believe the categories were appealing, and we believe very appropriate in celebrating the rich culture of the UAE.”

Sana Bagersh, CEO of BrandMoxie and patron of the Abu Dhabi Photographers said, “BrandMoxie is proud to organise this event and offer patronage to the Abu Dhabi Photographers. This group is extremely active, and clearly has outstanding talents that need to be recognised and celebrated. We hope to cement this in the UAE’s calendar of events, and look forward to organising it on a yearly basis.”
