ART

Railway Tracks
13 November 13
Railway Tracks by Pithum Gunapala explores the quiet poetry of train stations - spaces where movement, chaos, and calm coexist. Inspired by the fleeting connections between strangers in transit, Gunapala captures the rhythm and humanity of travel, finding stillness with motion and beauty in the everyday stop and flow of life. Pithum Gunapala

Impermanence
13 November 13
A joint exhibition by Preethi Hapuwatthe and Nishan Harasgama. Impermanence explores the subtle shifts that shape human experience. They delve into the tensions between presence and passing, the fleeting beauty of moments, and the resilience that accompanies change. Through layered collages and vibrant forms, their work embraces impermanence as a celebration rather than a loss. It reflects their journey through cycles of becoming and letting go, emphasizing the beauty of a life that is always in flux. The donkari Gallery

Tide Swims The Channel
13 November 23
Saskia Fernando Gallery presents Tide Swims The Channel, the latest solo exhibition by Chantanae Oweh. Through sculpture, painting, and performance, Oweh creates a layered reflection on the search for safety and sustenance. This body of work traces connections between migration and ecological decline, while comforting the colonial legacies and global structures that continue to shape these movements today. Saskia Fernando Gallery

Shifting Perspectives

13 November 21
"Shifting Perspectives", created by Pacheco Jayatilaka, and curated by Sadee Wathya encourages viewers to view into how light, space, and perception reshape our experiences. Jayatilaka's exploration of architecture and depth reveals how light shifts in perspective can transform the familiar into the extraordinary. Each painting showcases the strength of structure, with endless corridors and splicing walls, highlighting how our environments influence our perception. The Bayleaf Art Gallery

"Ways of Knowing Exhibition" at the Geoffrey Bawa Space
13 February 26, 2026
The exhibition sees Geoffrey Bawa's garden, Lunigama, as a lens through which to examine the many ways we learn, move, and share knowledge. Through seven installations - including virtual reality, film, textiles, and traditions, maps, seeds, and the human body - Ways of Knowing investigates how intelligence and understanding are cultivated through diverse mediums. Designed as a multi-sensory experience, the exhibition expands perception beyond sight, inviting visitors to reflect on the many ways we come to understand the world around us. The Bawa Space, Colombo 7
