

Lady Million now at the Parfumerie

The latest addition to the Parfumerie's collection is Lady Million Eau de Toilette, created by the renowned perfumer Anne Flipo (IFF). Explaining her new creation, she has said, "the Lady MILLION is brilliant, always caught up in seduction, gambling and competition. We find this strength, femininity and sensuality in the Eau de Toilette, but with a more luminous, fresher signature."

Vibrant and sensual, Lady MILLION Eau de Toilette is a fresh woody floral. While the first notes hold the promise of intoxication, Neroli essence and lily of the valley rival each other in sensuality and radiant freshness.

The face of Lady MILLION and who is featured in the promotional film is Dree Hemingway, Ernest Hemingway's great-granddaughter. The daughter of actress Mariel Hemingway and director Stephen Crisman, she has emerged an international top model in two years and is now featuring in the big screen. The iconic face of Paco Rabanne's fragrance for women Lady MILLION, Dree freely admits that she feels similar to the character 'in the way that she takes risks and has fun'.

Extravagant and unfailingly dazzling, this femme fatale is just like a diamond, unique and yet many-sided, brilliant and faceted. Excessively, of course, and luminous like a shower of diamonds. Lady MILLION Eau de Toilette displays the freshness of a woody fresh floral bouquet.
