Mobitel gets ISO certification for Information Security Management

Posted on
The ISO 27001:2005 certificate

Mobitel was awarded the ISO 27001:2005 certification for its solid and reliable Information Security Management System (ISMS) for securing information within the organisation and ensuring safety and reliability for customers.

The globally recognised ISO 27001:2005 certification safeguards the confidentiality, integrity and availability of information within an organisational framework and has been considered the most stringent security control certification process available worldwide.

Ranjith G Rubasinghe, CEO – Mobitel said, “this is a significant occasion for Mobitel as the company has obtained the ISO 27001:2005 certification by developing a secure Information Security Management System and improving key IT processes as well as its information security policies. Procedures had been documented, controlled and implemented as guided by the regulations of the ISO. The ISO certification further affirms our commitment as a leading telco giving Mobitel a competitive advantage.”

Mobitel received the ISO 27001:2005 certification from TÜV SÜD following consultation with KPMG on improving its information security framework.