The Tourteau crab or Brown crab, is similar to the Sri Lankan lagoon crab and is the closest in terms of texture and flavor. Thus, the MoC team showcased the fine flavors of the crustaceans coupled with Sri Lankan spices.

Speaking of his experience at the Shangri-La Hotel, Paris, Munidasa said, “Paris is the city I found the Tourteau (brown crab) and this discovery led to pop ups in London and now Paris, and a custom-made brown crab-opener. It was an exciting experience as I had the pleasure of preparing our signature dishes with the brown crab. We were honored to be invited by Shangri-La Hotel, Paris to showcase the best of Sri Lankan cuisine. Special thanks go out to the team led by Chef Christophe Moret, who helped us showcase the best of what we had to offer.”
