

Transcend Drive provides services for Future of Tourism Summit

Posted on

Transcend Drive provided their services to the guests including Guest of Honor Richard Quest, CNN anchor and Business Analyst.

Transcend Drive, exclusive luxury transport solutions provider, offered their superior services to the Cinnamon Future of Tourism Summit 2019. A fleet of luxury vehicles provided airport transfers and all other transport requirement for the guests.

The guests at the summit included the Guest of Honor Richard Quest, CNN anchor and Business Analyst; Anita Mendiratta, Special Advisor to the Secretary-General, UNWTO; Dilip Rajakarier, CEO, Anantara Hotels and Resorts and Minor Hotel Group; Sarah Mathews, Head of Destination Marketing APAC, TripAdvisor; Michael Yam, CEO and MD, Impetus Alliance; Ashish Hemrajani, Founder and CEO, BookMyShow. The Summit used Transcend Drive's range of Volvo, Audi A6 and Jaguar luxury cars for the transport requirements of its guests.

"We were indeed privileged to have been associated with the Cinnamon Future of Tourism Summit, which was timely and much needed exposure for our nation, as we recover from the April 21st catastrophe. Our fleet and services were used extensively for the travel requirements of panelists from around the world and we were happy to have our luxurious vehicles and superior customer-oriented staff work with these panelists. We look forward to working with Cinnamon and other international summits in Sri Lanka as well to provide transport solutions that are customized and portray the true hospitality of our nation,” said Kishan de Silva, Founder and Managing Director/CEO, Transcend Drive.

Transcend Drive, the undisputed market leader in luxury passenger transport is the preferred Transport and Travel Partner of many five-star hospitality brands in the country. It also serves the transport requirements of corporates and individuals looking to travel in style.