

Unveiling of Aathmiya Laalithya

Posted on

Aathmiya Laalithya, Sinhala edition of Wardrobe Warrior.

Sarita with a copy of Aathmiya Laalithya.

The Sinhala edition, Aathmiya Laalithya, translated from the English version, 'Wardrobe Warrior,' was unveiled in an elegant evening that brought together ladies from various fields of profession.

Highlighting the essence of empowerment, seven remarkable women—each a trailblazer of their own accord —were personally selected by Sarita to present the Sinhala version, celebrating both individuality and culture. They were: Ramani Fernando, Shyamalee Tudawe, Rosy Senanayake, Dr Ayesha Wickramasinghe, Chamindranee Kiriella, Sabeetha Perera Jayasinghe, Shehana van Golen and Dr Charisma Fernando.

The event sparkled with energy as the Sinhala Edition was splendidly unveiled by the iconic Silver Screen Star, Sabeetha Perera Jayasinghe while charismatic Glenda Parthipan compered the event for her dear friend.

Sarita is a marketeer by profession and has her own fashion label, Rachel Raj, which features a luxe range of premium designer resort wear.

'Wardrobe Warrior', authored by Sarita Rajandran, is Sri Lanka's first private publication dedicated to personal style and wardrobe curation for South Asian women.

Silver Screen Star, Sabeetha Perera Jayasinghe unveiling the Sinhala Edition, Aathmiya Laalithya

Sarita handing over a copy of Aathmiya Laalithya to Ramani Fernando, Shyamalee Tudawe, Rosy Senanayake, Dr Ayesha Wickramasinghe, Chamindranee Kiriella, Sabeetha Perera Jayasinghe, Shehana van Golen and Dr Charisma Fernando.

Glenda Parthipan compering the event for her dear friend.

Nuwan Wjethunge with Sarita.

Sarita with Marie Wickrematunge.

☒

Oshani, Sarita, and Imashi.